SUMMER INTERNSHIP PROGRAM 2016

The School of Politics and International Relations encourages applications for the summer internship program from young and motivated individuals pursuing their degree in International Relations, Political Science, Defence & Strategic Studies, Media Studies, and Public Policy.

The purpose of the internship is to provide an opportunity to the individuals to substantively contribute and learn from the research work and research projects conducted at SPIR. The intern will be given specific tasks and responsibilities and will be challenged to develop their capabilities and gain experience. The Interns will be working under the supervision of the esteemed faculty of School of Politics and International Relations. The interns are expected to be flexible and to take part in various activities at the school.

REQUIREMENTS

SPIR is looking for interns who are committed, hard-working, positive, open-minded, reflective and willing to learn. We expect to host between four to six interns.

TIME COMMITMENT

Generally 6-9 weeks, to be mutually agreed.

CONDITIONS

Internships are on a voluntary basis, and no payment is provided. In some cases a meagre stipend may be considered whereas travel at University buses will be considered upon request. At the completion of the internship students will be given an experience letter and a certificate confirming their successful participation in the SPIR Summer Internship Program.

APPLICATION PROCEDURE
